WHO MUST RECEIVE A COPY OR NOTICE?

Nothing in this preparation guide is served on anyone. Submit the challenge using ALEA/ACJIC's or the originating agency's procedure, not as a court filing. The held sources do not establish who must receive a copy or notice. Before submitting, ask that agency's records unit whether anyone else must receive a copy or notice and how.

USE THIS ROUTE ONLY FOR A RECORD ERROR

This route corrects or supplements inaccurate, incomplete, misleading, or misassigned criminal-justice information. It is not a general expungement remedy for an accurate arrest merely because no charge followed.
If the record is accurate and the goal is expungement, stop: Alabama's separate Title 15 expungement route must be assessed instead. Identity theft or disputed biometrics begins with agency correction and moves to counsel if unresolved.

AGENCY SEQUENCE

Obtain and review the Alabama criminal-history record. Identify the precise challenged entry and assemble identity verification, fingerprints if the agency requires them, and certified proof of the correct disposition.
Confirm the current challenge procedure with ALEA/ACJIC or the originating criminal-justice agency and use exactly that procedure. The committed record says the challenge ordinarily must begin within one calendar year after AJIC's response to the criminal-history application.
If the agency denies the challenge, keep the denial and follow the recorded written administrative appeal to the AJIC Director. A de novo circuit-court route exists only after a final Commission decision and is a separate packet; the recorded court window is 30 days after receipt or service of that final decision.
