EXACT PATHWAY

This route is the Board of Pardons and Paroles' absolute-pardon application for convictions Clean Slate erasure cannot reach. It is discretionary, and the participant applies through the Board's own ePardon process. The Board may require a hearing or consider an expedited review without one; the Board decides the review path. It is not a court filing.
Keep it distinct from a provisional pardon or certificate of employability, which addresses employment or licensing barriers and erases nothing. This exact pathway is the absolute pardon resulting in erasure.
Service: you serve no one. The absolute-pardon application is made online through the Board's ePardon portal; it is an executive-branch application, not a court filing.

ERASURE CONSEQUENCE AND PROCESS BOUNDARY

An absolute pardon received on or after October 1, 1974 results in erasure without a petition under Section 54-142a(d). The pre-October 1, 1974 branch requires a separate Superior Court petition and is not this route.
Use the Board's own current ePardon application and instructions and sign there personally; this preparation guide is not an application and cannot be submitted as a substitute.
Apply through https://epardonportal.ct.gov/portal . The Board's current Absolute Pardon instructions are at https://portal.ct.gov/bopp/pardon-division/pardon/application-process-and-instructions . Follow the portal's current application and attachment steps; this guide opens no application and supplies no Board decision.
Fee: the Board's own Pardon FAQ (https://portal.ct.gov/BOPP/Pardon-Division/Pardon/Pardon-FAQs, as captured on 2026-09-08) says the Board of Pardons and Paroles does not currently charge a fee to apply for a pardon. It also says you must pay the State Police, now the Department of Emergency Services and Public Protection (DESPP), for your State Police criminal history report, and that the Board does not set that charge; ask DESPP what it costs.
This guide does not state a waiting period. Confirm current eligibility, timing, and hearing mechanics from the Board's current rules. Stop for counsel if a hearing is set or any immigration issue exists.
