STOP BEFORE APPLYING: STATUTORY TEXT AND RECEIVING OFFICE

The legal review behind this guide has not verified Section 29-16-10 at an official New Mexico source. Stop before applying until the statutory text has been checked at an official source and the receiving agency and request format are established. Ask a New Mexico attorney to resolve the statutory-text gap and the New Mexico Department of Public Safety to confirm the receiving agency and format.

WHO MUST RECEIVE A COPY OR NOTICE?

This preparation guide is not served on anyone and is not a court filing. The held sources do not establish a service or notice rule for the agency request. Before submitting a request, ask the New Mexico Department of Public Safety whether anyone besides the receiving agency must receive a copy or notice and how.

WHAT THIS ROUTE IS

This is an administrative written request to an agency, not a court filing, and it does not use the Rule 1-077.1 NMRA form set. The request seeks expungement of the participant's DNA sample and DNA records from the state DNA identification system; the committed record says the administrative center must ensure corresponding expungement from CODIS.
The recorded qualifying branches are a reversed conviction, or an arrest ending in dismissal, nolle prosequi, successful preprosecution diversion, conditional discharge, misdemeanor conviction, acquittal, or no felony charge within one year. That one-year condition is a substantive lookback only for the no-felony-charge branch, not a universal wait.

DOCUMENTS AND STOP CONDITIONS

The recorded request must be written and supported by certified documentation or a sworn affirmation. Obtain the certified disposition for the applicable branch; on the no-felony-charge branch the record calls for a sworn affidavit that no felony charges were filed within one year.
Relief is unavailable where the person has a prior felony conviction or a pending felony charge for which DNA collection is authorized. Stop and obtain New Mexico counsel if either may apply.
No held source identifies the administrative center, receiving unit, destination, accepted request format, or fee. Confirm every one with the New Mexico Department of Public Safety before sending anything; this guide deliberately supplies no address.
